3. Scotland's Census 2022 Programme Report – Lessons Learned

3.1 Lesley Smillie introduced her paper to the meeting and covered the following key points:

- The Collect phase of the Programme was about to go through a formal gate process to officially document formal closure. The last remaining activities associated with decommissioning, archiving and contract closure had been completed and final documentation was being signed off. The remaining elements around Non-Compliance would continue to be managed closely through the Crown Office.
- The next Gateway Review on the Programme was being planned for March 2023. The Review Team would consider current progress against plan and activities associated with assuring the quality of census outputs delivery in late 2023.
- A working group had been established to consider options for the future of Census. Lessons learned and evaluation from Census 2022 could help to inform work in conjunction with engagement across Scottish Government, Chief Statistician and UK Statistical Authority in relation to statistical methodological developments. The initial work would involve framing a narrative from Census 2022, a stakeholder engagement plan and a project approach/ plan for a discovery phase. Work was being governed through the Census Programme governance and with early engagement into the Scottish Government and DAO for budget and assurance planning purposes.

3.2 Bill Matthews asked about timescales of outputs delivery. Lesley Smillie confirmed that scrutiny around the plans continued to be managed and targets were predicted to be achieved. NRS continued to be supported by the International Steering Group, which would provide assurance relating to targets and timescales.

3.3 Maggie Waterston asked about the future of Census and mainstreaming and how NRS could capitalise on economies of scale/ become more cross organisational. Lesley Smillie confirmed this had been discussed with senior NRS management and the Delivery Directorate, led by Carla Mchendry, would play a crucial role in how NRS share resources and build on the successes of the 2022 Census. Linda Sinclair added that lessons learned would be fed into future projects and the future design of Census.

3.4 Anne Moises asked about risks to the current Census, the admin data that needs to be added, Safe Haven and security. Lesley Smillie confirmed this was being managed via the census risk register. Administrative data requirements had been achieved. NRS had access to the data and ground breaking data sharing techniques had been established. There were valuable lessons learned around data sharing that would be used for future Censuses
