The printed returns of deaths of seamen are made under provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act 1894. They are arranged alphabetically by surname and include entries for other nationalities but only the entries for persons born in Scotland have been indexed. They include birthplace and last place of abode, particulars of the ship and the date, place and cause of death. A 'P' under the name indicates the seaman was a passenger at the time of death.

War Registers

There are three registers covering the South African War, World War I and World War II as well as printed lists for World War I and records relating to United States military transports.

South African War (1899-1902)

The register records the deaths of Scottish soldiers. In many cases the date of death has not been included or was not known. In such cases, the index gives the year of death as 1902, that is, the last year of the War.
